FOREWORD

"Far better it is to dare mighty things,
To win glorious triumphs,
Even though checquered by failure,
Than to take rank with those poor spirits
Who neither enjoy much nor suffer much,
Because they live in the grey twilight
That knows not victory or defeat."

These lines contain the idea that it is better to attempt mighty things, even if one fails, than to become one of those who know neither victory nor defeat.

This we have strived to do with our annual. We have sought to publish an annual that would fully picture all the school activities of the year, that would do justice to our school life, and that would be thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Now, Dear Reader, it is up to you to decide whether we have obtained victory or defeat.

OFELIA SEPULVEDA

EAGLE PASS INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

EAGLE PASS, TEXAS

Dear Students:

The obligation is ours.

We Americans are privileged to have great material wealth, a fine economic and political system, and a free and democratic society. All of this was built for us through great toil and sacrifice. Equally, great toil and care must be expended by us to keep it.

During World War II our young people developed the greatest and most successful organization in the world's history. When the "going was rough" the fighting spirit of our young people equalled the valor of their forebear. They undertook a big job and finished it magnificiently.

Today, in our troubled time, other young Americans are conducting themselves with valor and distinction. They know what our problems are and the evil confronting us, and they are willing to do their part in solving and correcting these problems.

I say, "Thank God for these young people, these boys and girls - you."

Sincerely,

J. I. James

To the Students and Graduates:

The theme of the commencement service, "Hold to the Vision of Truth and Peace," might well be carried throughout our lives as a motto for us all. Citizenship is the key to this motto and the way in which we conduct ourselves here in school to a very large degree will be repeated in later life.

You are the type of person you are today because of the influence of your parents, your Church, your school, and your friends. In this Democracy of ours, all of these institutions are dedicated to helping the youth of our land assume the responsibilities that are his.

In order not to disappoint your friends and to assure success for yourselves, it is my sincere wish that none of you--students and graduates of Eagle Pass High--will ever fail to be true to God, country, and yourself.

Sincerely,

C. A. Landrum

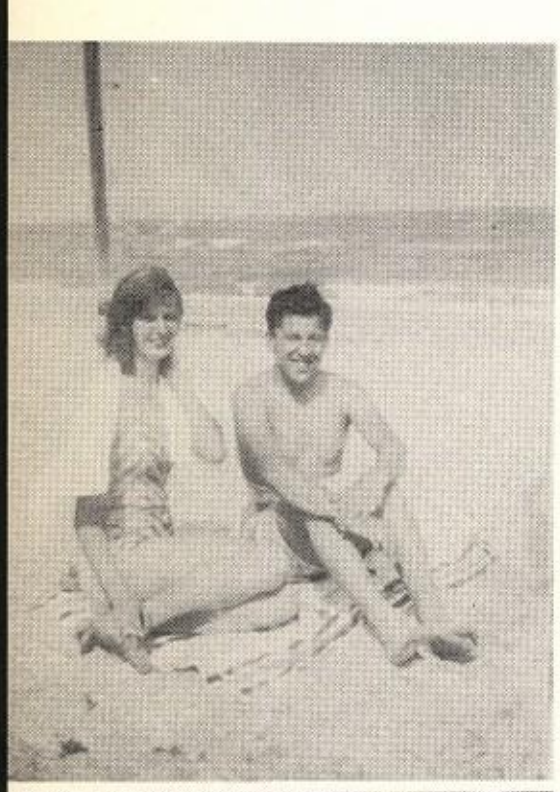
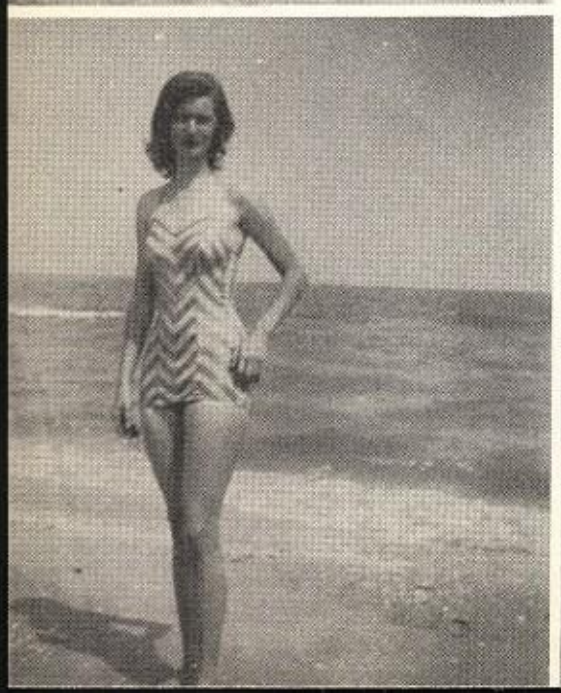
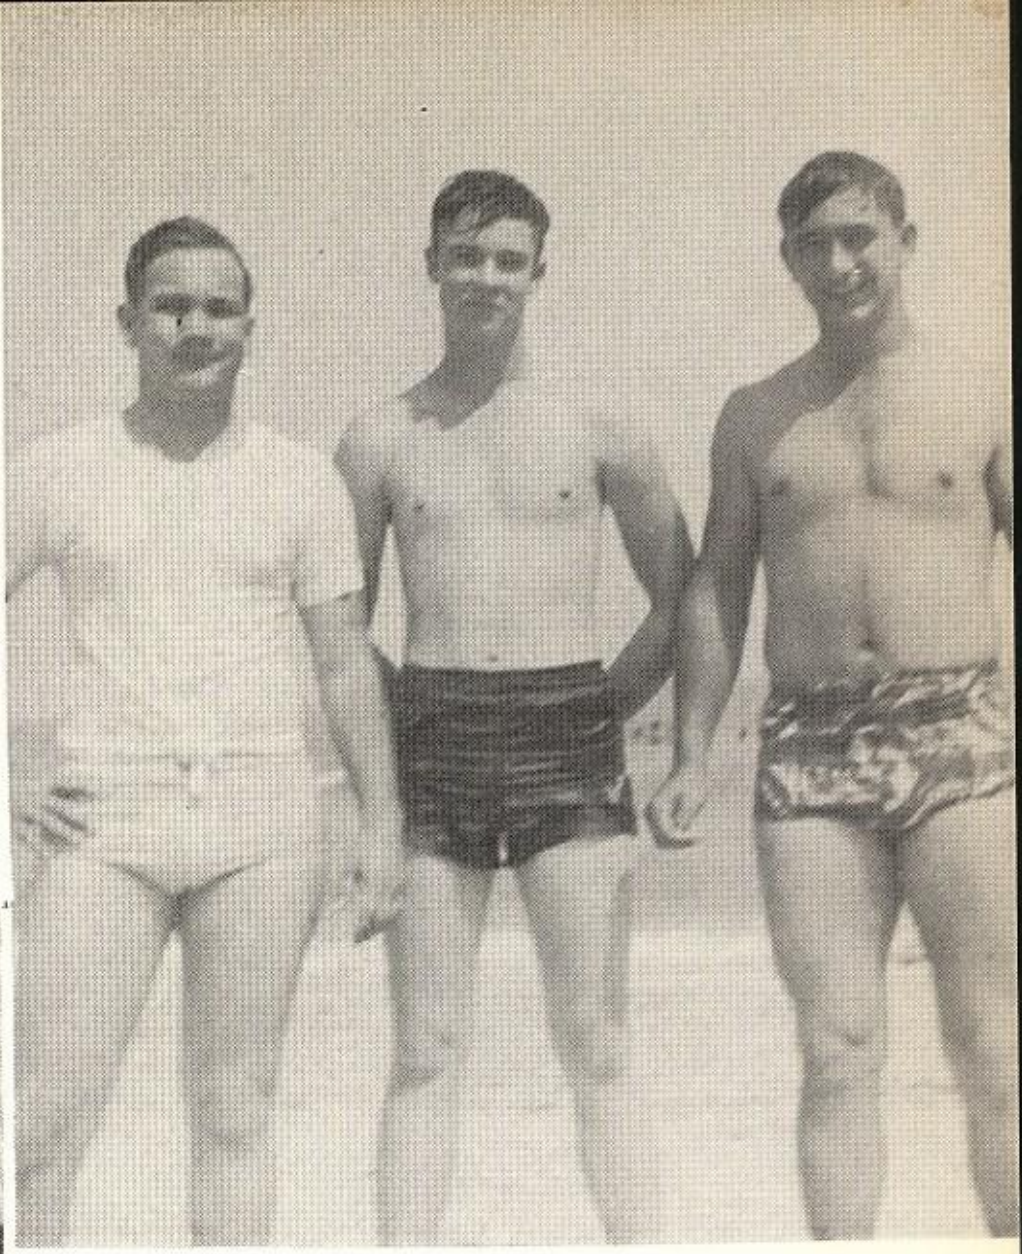
SENIOR TRIP



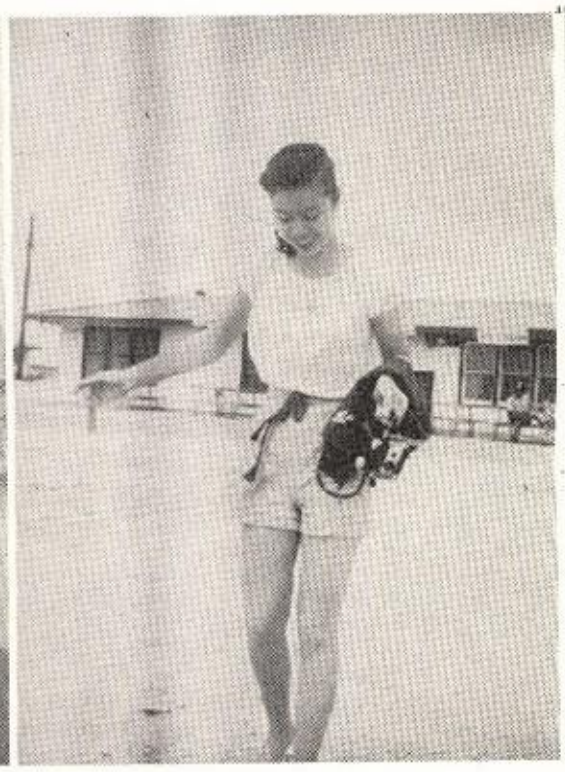


Rise and shine, Enrique!



Sea monsters or "pachucos?"

At that time in the morning!



Does it hurt?

Oh! Raul, it can't be that bad.

They took a Charles Atlas course.
